Creative Commons Licenses

CC BY – You can use however you want; just cite the source.

CC BY SA – You can use however you want, but you must cite the source AND license your work under a sharing license.

CC BY NC – You can use only if it is noncommercial; cite the source.

CC BY ND – You can use the work but you can't change it or put it into a bigger work; also cite the source.

These can also be used in combination.

See www.creativecommons.org for more information and to license your work!

How You Can Share and Make the World a Better Place

- License your content (web site, lesson plans, photos, PPTs, etc.) with a CC license. (CC BY is recommended.)
- Post photos to Flickr or other photo sharing sites with an open license. (You can change the default license setting in your account settings.)
- If you see a mistake or opportunity for clarification in Wikipedia or another wiki, change it!
- Contribute to Curriki, Wikibooks, the Kids Open Dictionary, or other OER sites.
- Teach your students about copyright and open content.
- Tell your colleagues and friends about open licenses and OER.
