

CSUWP ADVANCED INSTITUTE ON TEACHING WITH TECHNOLOGY

June 7-11, 2010 8:30am-3:00pm

Explore how digital tools can improve student learning in your classroom.

In the morning, you will learn how to:

- construct digital texts using podcasts, images, and video
 - create and use blogs
 - set up online networks like Nings
 - thoughtfully integrate technology into your curriculum

In the afternoon, you will work with ELL students attending the Saving Our Stories (SOS) Project as they:

- explore academic concepts
 - compose digital texts
 - reflect on their learning
 - connect with real-world audiences

develop.create.explore.compose.reflect.connect.join us.

Location: Johnson Elementary, 4101 Seneca, Fort Collins

Cost: Absolutely free, thanks to a generous grant from National Writing Project! You will receive a $100 stipend for participating, with which you may buy 1-2 CSU graduate credits. You must attend the entire workshop, including a dinner on Mon., June 7, with Troy Hicks, author of The Digital Writing Workshop, which we will be studying during the week.

Application Deadline: Friday, May 21

CSUWP ADVANCED INSTITUTE ON TEACHING WITH TECHNOLOGY

develop.create.explore.reflect.publish.connect.join us.

APPLICATION FORM

Please provide the information below in a Word document and send it to Cindy O'Donnell-Allen (cindyoa@mail.colostate.edu).
Questions? Contact Cindy or CSUWP Associate Director Jason Malone (jmalone@psdschools.org).

Name _____

School _____

Grade(s) and content area(s) you currently teach:

Mailing address _____

E-Mail address _____

Phone _____

IN A PARAGRAPH OR SO, PLEASE EXPLAIN WHY YOU ARE INTERESTED IN ATTENDING THE INSTITUTE:

APPLICATION DEADLINE
FRIDAY, MAY 21